Research in Accounting, Society and Accountability

Accountability Café

We are convening a series of informal meetings in which academics with an interest in accountability are invited to discuss current research, present their own work, and give feedback on work in progress. University of Leicester faculty and PhD students across all departments as well as faculty and PhD students from other universities are welcome to join. The Accountability Café will offer an informal setting in which current understandings of what accountability is can be challenged and new conceptualizations of accountability, including radical alternatives, can be considered. At the same time, the Cafe will offer an opportunity to identify and network with colleagues in this area of research.

For an initial run of session, we will meet on the following Wednesdays from 16:00 to 17:30 at the University of Leicester School of Business, Brookfield Campus (rooms tbc).

March: 11th, 25th

April: 29th

May: 13th, 27th

Please send an email with the title 'Accountability Café' to rasa@leicester.ac.uk if you are interested in attending or presenting at any of these sessions – or if you just want to be updated on dates, topics, and presenters. You will receive an email with joining instructions prior to the sessions. Light refreshments will be provided.
